Concept Statement: Finbar McHugh is an artist from Galway, Ireland. His larger-than-life street art aims to transform how individuals feel in a space while also rejuvenating historic buildings. This specific mural was created during the pandemic to represent the natural beauty of Galway and to brighten the community. These ideas were implemented in the restaurant to challenge the design of a stereotypical pub. Ghillie's Pub will bring a taste of Ireland through the lens of modern hues and contemporary furniture selections while holding true to the lore of Ireland and its infamous pub life.

Design Statement: Drawing inspiration from the mural and the streets of Ireland, a similar color palette, and an emphasis on free-formed shapes were implemented throughout the design. Design features include colossal murals placed throughout the space including a whimsical Dublin wallpaper featuring Celtic plates and Celtic shoes. A corrugated metal ceiling connects to the original tin ceiling located in the historic building.

Restaurant Name: Ghillies are the traditional soft shoes worn by Irish dancers. These ballet-like shoes offer the utmost flexibility to create graceful and precise movements. Similar to the expressions an artist makes using their selected medium, ghillies allow the dancer to exhibit strength, grace, and individuality.

Drawing inspiration from the streets of Galway, an iron and brick structure was represented to define the outdoor dining space; meanwhile string lights hanging over the space mimic the many alleyways in Ireland.
